Folks:

So what's not to like? Winds out of the SE at around 8-10 MPH that backed ever so slowly toward the east created rivers of air that would split apart and then mix back together again. A challenging but manageable course was the result that rewarded those that paid attention and frustrated those that didn't. More than once a good start was squandered by slipping out of the groove and watching half the fleet sail right past you.

Ten boats, great racing and a two hour sunset in blue-gray steel and gold, which I found very distracting, topped off by hot chilly and cold beer. Prime. Absolutely prime.

Enjoy. Larry
