Folks:

Never have so many, raced s hard, and completed so little. We started late, 12:00, waiting for the wind, which was hinting that it would be coming out east, or was it the West, and we raced, hard, until 3:00. That means that we averaged 36 minuets per race.

This group really loves to race these boats.

I can only imagine what the other park visitors were thinking when they came upon a group of motionless men, gathered in a very tight group on shore, starring silently at a tightly grouped bunch of small boats, motionless out on the water.

It was fun but grueling.

Check out Rich Cushing, sailing his Pikanto, a good light air boat, to a tie for second. Good job

Enjoy.

Larry Stiles
