Sailors,

Sunday had steady SE to SW winds with an average of 6mph and a max of 12mph made for perfect #1 rig sailing with long competitive upwind legs. I have said it before that no two laps are the same. Our bay (Sharpe Cove) is a sailor's venue and you have to keep your eyes on the environment and constantly update your sailing strategy. One lap you think you are going to make the weather mark but the current says otherwise. The next lap no problem. Five sailors got 16 races in and we managed to stay dry most of the day. Wednesday forecast is for top of the A rig conditions and cold. See you there!

Regards,
Mike Doherty
