DPMYC Sailors,

You know you are in trouble when you arrive at Bowman Bay and there is seaweed and kelp in the parking lot. The boat ramp was covered with telephone pole sized logs. Three of our permanent buoys were gone. All the result of a rare 30MPH westerly that raged for 24 hours on Monday and Tuesday. But, that did not stop us because we had a sunny calm day on the shortest day of the year and 8 sailors ready to go. We carried the rescue boat over the logs and retrieved or replaced our lost buoy's. The park guys came and cut up the logs and cleared the ramp. Winds were light but there was lots of storm debris in the bay which slowly cleared out except for two islands of floating kelp that eventually shut us down. We will be out again this Wednesday.

Regards, Mike Doherty
